

You're invited to our annual

Community Clay Day Celebration Saturday, May 29, from 10-4

at Kit Cornell Pottery

69 High Street, Exeter, NH

(three blocks from downtown Exeter, corner of High and Gardner)

Tel. 603-772-6323; web www.kitcornellpottery.com; email: kit@kitcornellpottery.com

SALES!

Support your local potters

Pottery seconds and experimental pieces by Kit, Jessica Seaton, Deb Moran, Samantha Wood and others. A once-a-year opportunity not to miss.

Kit's showroom open for viewing/sales of new, first-quality work.

Contribute to the relief effort in Haiti

Purchase seedlings in handmade earthenware pots in support of the micro-lending organization Kiva and Partners for Health, benefiting the people of Haiti. Pots made by local activists including Lief Friedrichs, Alison Joy, Devin Trently, Derek Mraz, Jordan Knowles, Kit, and Lily and Henry Zwaan.

Buy signed copies of the book Exeter Remembered by Kit's beloved former neighbor Jim Griswold, with proceeds going to the Exeter Historical Society.

PLAY!

Try throwing on the potter's wheel for the first time, or brush up on those rusty high school skills (over age 8 only for safety reasons). Successful pots will be donated to an Empty Bowls project. Learn by watching accomplished throwers center, form and decorate pots.

Work together at the hand building table (all ages!) Take home clay samples (you may also purchase clay for at-home use).

See local materials, including Exeter clay and Apple Annie's applewood ash.

REGISTER!

This is a chance to sign up for classes.

TOUR!

Visit the studio, showroom and kiln, enjoy playing on the lawn (bring musical instruments, blankets, if you like!)

REFRESH!

Fresh lemonade, fruit and gourmet treats to buy and enjoy on site or at home. Benefits Haiti relief.

SOCIALIZE!

Bring your friends and meet new ones. Learn more about clay, glazes, firing, and why we love the craft.
